Community Foundation of Northern Colorado Celebrates Philanthropy at Annual Event

On May 5, 2016 the Community Foundation of Northern Colorado will once again gather community leaders, donors, and volunteers at the Embassy Suites Loveland for its Annual Celebration of Philanthropy. This event recognizes the generosity of Northern Colorado citizens, celebrates the work of area nonprofits, and demonstrates the impact of local philanthropy.

The event will include recognition of outstanding community leaders, and a keynote address by Tim Terrentine, managing director of C2 Consulting. Terrentine will share his compelling and uplifting personal story with attendees and can personally attest to the importance of philanthropy in the lives of youth.

“I believe the Annual Celebration is an event that motivates people to give and volunteer in new and unique ways,” said Community Foundation president, Ray Caraway, “and it celebrates something of fundamental importance to our community.”

Members of the Markley Family will accept the Community Legacy Award, presented by First Western Trust to a Northern Colorado family that has demonstrated philanthropy and volunteerism for multiple generations. The program will include a special tribute to Bob Everitt, a founding board member of the Community Foundation who recently passed away.

Registration and a reception begin at 4:30 p.m. Following the program, attendees are invited to enjoy a post-event reception. Tickets for the event are available through Tuesday, May 3 at www.ACOP2016.org.

The Annual Celebration’s Presenting Sponsor is First National Bank and the Community Legacy Sponsor is First Western Trust. Support is also provided by Leadership Sponsors Banner Health, Chrisland Real Estate Companies, and EKS&H. In addition, more than 75 other spotlight, event, and table sponsors help make this event possible. A full list of sponsors is available online at www.ACOP2016.org.

About the Community Foundation of Northern Colorado

The Community Foundation is a nonprofit, public foundation working to build permanent endowments for the benefit of charitable causes and organizations in Northern Colorado. It manages more than 400 individual charitable funds and $90 million in assets. It serves a unique leadership role by bringing people and resources together around important local issues.
